Website hosting [1]

This website is made available online (web hosting in internet terminology) by AbitMORE [2], using internet servers running on Linux (not windows ...).

Apart from hosting of websites (and its related eMail hosting), AbitMORE also offers solutions and services such as:

- Buying (and installing/configuring) new PCs (laptops, desktops) and/or servers.
- Optimization and/or maintenance of existing IT infrastructure in SMBs, e.g. to gently transition from outdated hard- and/or software to a more modern and more productive successor which typically leads to cost reductions (like power usage reduction and lower software license fees).
- Transition from a set of (locally hosted) IT solutions to (secured) solutions residing "somewhere on the internet" (cloud computing), including (as a sample) the usage of Virtual Private Servers.
- Installation and implementation of various open source softwares (which can be downloaded free of charge but which aren't obvious to get started with), including training and/or support for the users of these softwares.

More information about all this (and even AbitMORE ... oeps!) is available on the AbitMORE website [2].
